The News.

The Arabia brings us Liverpool dates one week liter than those already received. The steamship Indian Empire, about the safety of which serious apprehensions had been entertained, turns up at Broad Haven, Ireland, all right. She encountered furious storms and her fuel was exbausted. The Emperor of the French has pardoned MONTALAMBERT of the penalties imposed upon him, but the latter spurns the pardon and appeals against the sentence passed upon him.

Breadstuffs are lower in the Liverpool market. The British in India have been successful in several important engagements with the rebels, and gained a number of their strongholds.

The telegraph brings us news from South America and Mexico. In Buenos Ayres the war continues between the Arch Bishop and the Free Masons. The Liberals were concentrating around the Capital of Mexico.

Pork and Figur are both reported firmer in the New York market. In regard to drassed hogs the same may be said of our own market, but there is no important change in other artiéles.

The weather yesterday was rather unsettled with some indications of snow.

Why Douglas was Degraded. The New York Day Book, a steunch Administration journal, thus explains the reason of the late indignity offered to Senator Douglas:

The action of the crucus is believed to bave nothing whatever, or indeed very little, to do with Senator Douglas' course last whiter. It is solely owing to the false and dangerous doctrine which Senator Douglas continues to repeat and uphold—the dogman of squatter sovereignty. The time has arrived when the Democratic party, in consenance with the Supreme Court decision, should repudiate this hereay. It has now done so unmistakably and emphasically. The idea that a tew settlers in a Territory, rushed in there by Emigract Aid Societies, can exclude Southern citizens with their rights of property as guaranteed by the Constitution, is so preposterous, that it only needs to be presented to the minds of the people to ha at once rejected. Senator Douglas will find that the Democratic party will never uphold such a position—the Dred Scott decision in its entirety must be accepted as the real, practical tiving issue, and the rights of all citizens in the common Territory of the Union must be accepted as the consended withers are readed reading or late indignity offered to Schator Douglas: protection seeing issue, and the rights of all citizens in the common Territory of the Union must be conceded without any special pleading or technicalities. " Senater Douglas' "great principle" is exploded, and we have come back to the point where we ought to have started."

The above is undoubtedly the ground which the Administration means to sesume for a justification of this onslaught upon Douglas. It also correctly represents the "vital" principles of the Sham Democratic party of to-day.

SAVAGE.-Senstor Jones, of lows, a "regular" Deutelas, of Illinois, an irregular ditto, which closes thus:

"This, sir, is the third time that you have made "infamously rake" accusations against me, and that I have been compedied to fasten the lie upon you. Though you may, at the sacrifice of democratic organization, have effected a triumph in your own State, at you say, "ower Executive and Congressional dictation," I can but lock with contempt upon any fame or position you may have ecquired by a union with "white spirits and black, blue spirits and gray," Black Republicans, South Americans, disappointed office seekers, &c., as I do upon the miserable resort to approblems epithets connected with my gave you a sure escape.

GEO. WALLACE JORKS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 80, 1858. A communication appeared in the St. Louis Republican, a few days ago, in relation to the assignment of the Press and Tribune proprie-tors, which needs correcting in several partion-

In the first place, it is not true that the "lia-bilides exceeded $100,000." The amount was under $50,000-or half the sum stated in the way their hearty sopport, although laboring under difficulties at present which can and will be surmounted.

The care of the assignment was simply this. The debts assumed by the firm were falling due in the shape of judgment notes much faster than even its large profits could meet. Money could not be borrowed on assistanciny fine, nor could real estate be sold for cash, except at a ruinous sacrifice. Hence the step taken, the object of which was to gain time so as to enable the propriet of convert real property into cash, to collect outstanding accounts, and to give the office a chance to earn money. The debts of the firm were chiefly contracted in the purchase and improvement of real estate, pion to the financial crash of Angust, 1857. On the day the assignment was made, (Nov. 8th, inst.) the asset of the Press and Tribuse, consisting of types, powers presses, machinery, and stationary, amounted to $70,000; this is exclusive of the good-will, patronage and accounts, which are held at $80,000. The inventory of machinery, &c., was valued at only two-thirds of its originate.

It will be seen from the above paragraphs, which, if sold at anything like its value, to pay off its entire indebtedness, and leave $20,000, besides good-will and patronage, to carry on the business.

Newly all the creditors, on a statement of the same. In the meanwhile, the business of the concern will be conducted the same as if nothing had happened. The story that certain individuals have circulated, that the paper would be discontinued, is parfectly abound.

The consolidation of the Press & Tribure took after that the effect July 1st, and the assignment was made November 8th. In this period of four months and a week, the books showed that the net pro-its of the concern had been ten thousand dol-lars, and the lightlittes assumed by the firm July 1st, had been reduced that amount. The present actus! circulation is as follows: Daily. Rdition, 7,500; Tri-Wackly, 1,400; Wackly 14,500—all payable in advance.

800—all payable in advance.

From the foregoing summary of facts, you can judge of the truth of the various statements going the rounds of the Democratic papers,

Special Despatches to the Cincinnati Gazette. WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—P. M.

The Illinois nominations, without en exception, were confirmed by the Senate to-day. This is significant. The appointments throughout were anti Douglas, made, in most castag, for the special purpose of chastising the rebellious Fennater. Yet, while a single objection would have delayed the matter, not one was made. Douglas has thus been repudlated by a cli sides.

The Lecture To-Night.

The Lecture To-Night. Let it not be forgotten that Horacz GREELEY will lecture before the Young Men's Association at Albany Hall this evening. The subject of the lecture is to be "Great Men," and that it will be treated of in a manner to be highly interesting and instructive, at the same time, the name of the veteran lecturer and editor, is a sufficient asprance. Night before last Mr. GREETEY delivered the same lecture to a very large audience t Chicago, and everywhere he has been been it has received the stamp of popular approbation, The Detroit and Allwausec Freight Route.

Gone to Germany .-- Mr. Jacob Best, who is Gong to Grament.—Mr. Jacob Best, who is well known to our citizets as the brewer of good lager for many years past, left yesterday on a visiting tour through Germany and other coatimental states.—Free Democrat.

The Sentinel published a paragraph of about the same tone about Mr. Best, resterday morning. It is well enough to mention that Mr. Best has started for Europe, but to make that event the occasion for puffing his lager, is not just the thing for a couple of journals that have been identified with the Temporance party in this State. We itslicised the words "good lager," but that does not change their meaning. Is a paper that calls lager "good," a proper Temporance organ? And does it not belie itself when it advecates temperance principles? And do ance organ. And does a hot being then went it advocates temperance principles? And do business men want such a paper placed in the hands of their families? The Wisconsin, though it has never claimed to be the organ of a Temperance parts, yet it would not think of giving such an endorsement to a beverage that brosscates, and that is an efficient aid in breading pagestre, consultation and gime. "Strows ing poverty, corruption and crime. "Straw tell which way the wind blows."—Wisconsin of

The Sentinel takes great pleasure in giving publicity to the above Pherissical article from the Wisconsin of yesterday. We did chronicle the departure of our friend and fellow citizen JACOB BEST, Jr., for Europe, and tendered him our best wishes for a pleasant voyage and a safe and speedy return. We spoke favorably, too: of his "Lager Beer," a healthy, and, taken in moderation, an innocent beverage. We claim, moreover, to be friendly to "temperance in all things;" but we have never thought it necessary to make a parade of this opinion. And we are quite content to les "business men," and all others, decide for themselves, whether they "mant such a paper" as the Sentinel "placed in the hands of their !amilies."

Hoggish Calculations,-The biggest pile of hogs, we venture to say that has ever been seen in Wisconsin, now occupies the old platform of the Milwaukee and Mississippi Railroad. There are three thousand of them there, all in a heap, which has been increasing from day to day, for the past week. They belong to Mesers, LATION & PLANEINTON, and are all for packing. A fair average of their weight would be about 240 pounds each, and taking this as a basis, the total weight would be 720,000 pounds, purchased, probably, at an average cost of 5% cents, making the total value of the pile upwards of $40,000. The whole number of hogs received here since the commencement of the packing sesson, is somewhere in the neighborhood of 19,000 head, and taking the same average as above, we would have 4,560,000 pounds or 2,280 tons of pork for which there has been peid apwards of a quarter of a million or about $262,000. Estimating each of the 10,000 begs to be 31 feet in length, if they were all placed in a row they would form a line very nearly long shough to enclose the entire city,or about 13 miles. Now the next question which arises, is, how long a string of sausages would they make? But this is a problem which we have not the data at hand to soive conclusively. Taking into consideration the fact, that the er Milwaukee Belle, arrived safe at Grand Haven packing season is not nearly over yet, it will be observed from the above figures that the perk Democrat, has addressed a letter to Senator | goods, which they tack out the evening previous, | trade is quite a little item in the business of our

his paper in italics : I have the best reasons for saying that the President counselled the attack upon the Senator

We think this likely enough, and while many will question the policy of this stroke at Doug-LAS, none can deny its boldness. The political piroles at Washington are all on the qui vive, in anticipation of Mr. Douglas' arrival there, and his course towards the Administration.

Judicial Election. On the first Tuesday in March (the Town meeting day under the new Statutes) a Judge is to be chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the didates have already been named for the place Washington County Democrat, that of John E Mann, of West Bend, Washington County. We presumelibat Judge Shoan, who was appointed by Gov. RABDALL to fill the vacancy, and who has already proved his eminent fitness for the post, will also be a candidate and will be supported by the people, independent of party. ORE GOOD TURN DESERVES ANOTHER .- The Madison Journal thinks that Republicans ought not to find fault with the appointment of Mr. CLASON, as Collector of Milwaukee, in place of Mr. Schonffler, removed, because the latter has always been a thorough-going party man and an unhesitating supporter of "regular nominations," while the former has sometimes bolted and has even "sympathized" in the election of "Black Republicans." In proof of this, the Journal quotes the following paragraph from

A LONG MAIL ROUTE .- Our Overland Mail Route, from St. Louis to San Francisco, is a pretty extensive one, but that from St. Petersburg to Irkutsk, in Siberis, beats it.

The Siberian mail is conveyed from St. Petersburg to Moscow by rail, and from thence to Irkutsk, the capital of Eastern Siberia, in carriages drawn by horses. The distance from Moscow to Irantskis 8,426 miles, and there are 210 mail stations on the road for changing hotses. The mail communication is semi-weekly and the expense of it to the Russian Govern ment is about £57,000 a year. The mail from Mescow to Irkutsk is generally conveyed is abou 25 or 30 days. The mail communication be tween Russla and China is carried on by a horse post between Pekin and Kyanchta, a frontier town in Trans Baikpl, close to Mongolian China, once every three months. The distance between Kyachts and Pekin is reckoned about 1,000 miles, and is traversed in about 30 days.

THE REAL VALUE OF MONEY .- The Railroad Record measures the true value of money in the United States by a standard which it regards as infallible. There are three clements to be considered : first, the rest; next, the security; third, the time. If the security is perfect, the lender need add nothing to the rent, otherwise he will : time is preferred; but if there is a risk, short time is desirable. The Bonds of the United

THE DAILY SENTINEL.

Addres - JERMAIN & BRIGHTMAN. Pablishers Dally Sentine: Milwanker Wie. THE ADVENTURES OF A NIGHT.

BY JAMES M'CARROLL.

[Concluded]

"We have got them at last," said I to Tom and his companion, who had just joined me, on tying up the horses at the guard wall. "All the merchandize of which we have been in search is at this moment lying below at the ferry. So let us proceed down at once, and make seizure, for I apprehend we will not have much difficulty, as there is apparently no great force to encounter."

I got a glimpse of old Ringwood's face from a solitary ray that gleaned from one of the windows of the Clifton. He was in extacles. He rubbed his hands in excessive joy, and chuckled mudibly over his far-sightedness and its anticipated result. I could have pixched the wretch over the cliffs. I could have pitched the wretch over the cliffs, for well I knew what was going on within him. His soul was I terally corroded with the love of gain. It matered not to him whether the goods belonged to the wealthiest man in the land, or were the sole fortune of a fatheriess child or wiwere the sole fortune of a fatheriess child or wi-dow. A portion of them was likely to become his prey, and that was all that concerned him— all that made his eyes glitter. I had never given the subject a thought previously; although he was always repulsive to me, but now the truth seemed to flash upon me at once; he had not a single redeeming trat in his character; his heart, I felt ussured, was impregnable to the most ag-onizing prayer; he was a villain of the deepest dye.

On our way downwards we encountered a on our way downwards we encountered a covered carriage standing close under the shelter of the rocks, and were in the act of passing it, when a dark lantern was flashed in our faces by two men who were seated in the inside smoking their cigars; but who, on perceiving our features, apologised immediately, informing us at the same time that an extensive robbery had been just convented at Technique to the content and the convented to the convented to the content and the convented to the convented to the convented to the content of the convented to the convented to the content of the convented to the convented to the content of the convented to the return, we continued our course to the water's about touching the shore.

From the single barrel and small quantity of packages contained in the eraft, it was now apparent that we were in the very nick of time, as well as from what I, at a glance, conjectured to be the owners of the goods, sitting quietly muffed up in the stern, after laving shipped the last article from the other side. So, with the determination of making a sweeping affair of it, I resolved to pounce upon the boat at first, and secure it while it was being unloaded, and cut off the two persons in the stern—who were likely to remain in their position until some of the parcels were removed forward—from lending any assistance to their comrades should a scuffle ensue, which, without this procaution, I thought more than probable, as there were five against us, although the two boatmen were but mere stiplings, and no such sterling stuff as old Tarpauling and his sons.

though the two boatmen were but mere stiplings, and no such sterling stuff as old Tarpauling and his sons.

It was now the dead hour of the night, when from behind a large pile of rock, some distance below the foot of the Grand Horse Shoe Fall, we all with quickened pulses, perceived the boat run up on the long, narrow slide within twenty paces of us, and which was, at that period, all most butied in the waves that dashed has one of its extremities and then shot out to join the great body of waters that, for upwarss of two miles, swept with savage impetaosity the shore on which we stood. My object being to ascertain, it possible, whetrer any of the party was armed, before I attempted to secure the or make any disposition of the articles than bad been already landed, I waited anxiensly until I saw the man with the lantern assisting the two boatmen to get the barrel sshore, but on not being able to discover any weapon whatever, the incore of the weather, that energy of the weather, that ever a discover any weapon whatever, the incore of the propose of the p WHOLESALE AND RETAIL utter desolation.

It was so with me, even at that dreadful moment. I knew the river thoroughly. I was sensible that all the great waters of the west were here struggling to free themselves from a narrow pass, where they were walled in by towering cliffs that were lost in the clouds, but at the same time I was aware that there were eddies, and one recognized landing place on the American shore, which might, through some miraculous cast of the die, be gained ere our doom was sealed. Consequently the instatat I found myself adrit on a floud so terrific, with but a single oar to guide me, and in the midst of a merciless storm, I pulled, with almost auperhuman might towards the opposite rocks. To attempt a landing on the Canadian side would result in our immediate destruction, as the whole force of the current broke I furiously over the immense wedges of fallen cliff with which it is studded. Fortunately, it was the left hand ong that fell overboard at the time of the disaster, otherwise, I should have been unable to keep the boat quarrering off the course of the waters, or impelit angling forward as we were swept along—although I was not alone in my exertions to reach some point of safety; for sonreely had I grasped the full danger of my situation, when a flash of lightning revealed one of my companions, paddling vigorously, in the proper direction, with a piece of plank, which he, providentially, found beneath some small cases, after having with a strange promptness and agility, pitched nearly everything overboard in search of

However doubtful, at the period, I considered his character as a sminggler, yet he appeared evidently a man who required no stimulant to act when the time came; and feeling that I had a fellow mortal beside me with arear muscle hast in unless with a sear muscle hast in unless with a search search. with every muscle bent in unison with my own, i caught additional strength from the conviction, and made the car whistle through the waves with increased velocity, until at last I found we were whirled into an eddy, where we came in contact with what appeared to be some large flowing body.

gaged previously; and further that were it not for the active exertions of one of them at least, I might have had a very different story to tell myself. Feeling at all events that I enturtained a degree of warmit towards them which I could not well explain at the moment, I made up my mind fally that they should spend the remainder of the mint. of the night under my roof, and then in the morning enter into some explanation regarding their conduct, which I was resolved to view with as much leniency as the law could possibly recognize, and for the purpose of grinding old Ringwood, permit them to enter the goods if they would permit them to enter the goods if they some of the work of them as plainly as I therefore communicated to them as plainly as I therefore communicated to them as plainly as I could, for the storm was absolutely increasing instead of otherwise, that they would have to cross the bridge to the Canadian shore before they could obtain shelter, but that they might not be apprehensive in any degree whatever, as even in in the absence of the lightering, which during my observations commenced to flash with extraordidary viridness, I was perfectly acquainted with every step of the way. To this arrangement the great the right could be recognitive to the control to the resonance of the way. of the night under my roof, and then in the extraordidary vividness, I was perfectly acquainted with every step of the way. To this arrangement they assented tacitly, as it was impossible during such a contantion of elements to attempt anything like a conversation—and without further comment we all commenced an ascent of the rocky track that led to the main road, and the entrance of the wonderful structure that hing in indi sir over a giff nearly three hundred feet deep a short distance from where we stood. In the course of a very few minutes we reached the gates of the bridge, where I was surprised to meet a covered vehicle standing in the shelter of the dark wooden towers, and a light still burning in the foll house. Being accustomed, however, to cross and recross, all hours, I was aware of the secret crevice in which the night key was deposited for the courenience of those who were priviliged and resided in that immediate key was coposited for the convenience of close who were privilized and resided in that immediate locality, so without making any disturbance whatever I turned the key in the lock and pro-

I knew I could open with the same ease and certainty.

The moment we stepped out over the frightful chasm no language can describe the grandeur—the sublimity of the scene that burst upon us. The lightning, that now swept the horizon, at rapid mervals, it up the whole river with strange brilliancy, discovering, in its fiful glare, all nature, no it were, leaping in and out or gloom! while in the distance the great white American cataract fell blazing from the clouds, like some mighty drop scene that shut from mortal guarchie grand drama of eternity! It was a night of appalling festival! The thunders beat out their long revielles—the winds played to the dancing heavens!—and the startled waters were struck into purple who once more by the lurid wand of the Great Enchanter!

Being now it the very highway of the storm ter of the rocks, and were in the act of passing it, when a dark lantern was flashed in our faces by two men who were seated in the inside smoking their cigars; but who, on perceiving our features, apologised immediately, informing us at the same time that an extensive robbery had been just committed at Toronto, and that the criminal was expected to attempt an escape by the Bridge or Ferry that night, and that their object was to affect in if possible. I did not like the appearance of either of these persons, nor was I quite satisfied of the truth of their story, as from their dress and the jewelry with which they were bedizened, they evidency belonged to no police force in the Province. Consequently, without making any very lengthened remarks in edge, which we just reached as the boat was about touching the shore.

From the single barrel and small quantity of packages contained in the eraft, it was now apparent that we were in the very nick of time, as well as from what I, at a glance, conjectured to be the owners of the goods, sitting quietly nuffered in the eraft, it was now apparent that we were in the very nick of time, as well as from what I, at a glance, conjectured to be the owners of the goods, sitting quietly nuffered upon the theory and which last been totally bandern and as I stepped upon the verancial of my abode once more, censured my to the ferry, and which last been totally bandern and as I stepped upon the verancial of my abode once more, censured mysolf for having so hastly entertained suspicions of the veracity of persons who could apparently have no interest, whatever in making false statuted from the other side. So, with the determination of making any very included the content of the same time very highway of the storm it was with greet difficulty we could keep our feet, or prevent ourselves from being bown out the was with greet difficulty we could keep our feet, or prevent ourselves from being bown out the was with greet difficulty we could keep our feet, or prevent ourselves from being

MONEY MATTERS.—There is very little animation in the money market at present, and no alteration in rates,
The Banks are discounting for their outlowers to a liberal extent at 10 per cent. In outside o'reles there is very little acceptable paper effering, and rates range from 1% to 8 per cent a month. Eastern Exchange Gold, as usual, at 1% per cent.

Commenman...The aggregate receipts of wheat to-day are but little over 5,500 bushels, and the market is steady are but little over opportunities, and the marker is evenly at our last quotations, the range for No. 1 spring being 74177c, and extra sub 8829 to. Onto are lower in con-arquence of a reported decline in the St. Louis market. Rye and corn are firm and a shade higher, and barley remains wachsnyed, The market for dressed hogs was pretty quist in the ear ly part of the day, buyers not going outside of $5,50 for heavy hogs, and soliers still holding on, in many instan-ces, in anticipation of an improvement. Advices received in the afternoon representing the Chicago and Cincin nationarkets as firmer, stiffened the market somewhat and a few plos fots averaging 160 to 160 lbs seld a sion market:

A more steady feeling and increased firmness were the leading features to-day, in the pork trade. Under the induction of invorsible weather and small receipts, indicated advanced their views, and were fees anxious to realize, while buyers were more disposed to operate; still the improvement in tone was more on the part of the former than the latter. Extra heavy longs were, in most cases, held at $1, and in some cases $1.00 was asked; but at anything over $6,75, for $9$ to $20 averages, buyers were ones.
